HEAVY RAINS BRING RELIEF TO FARMERS

Heavy rains Tuesday night and Wednesday brought to an end the drought that has for several weeks impeded the growth of crops in the county. The rains will prove of great benefit to the crops, which have been suffering from lack of moisture. Reports from the county stated the rains were general, falling at a time when badly needed. Streams through the county, which were beginning to show effects of the drought have been replenished, furnishing water needed for stock and other purposes.

As a result of the rains farmers are jubilant. A temporary backset was given the wheat and clover hay harvest. This is not expected to last long, as farmers Wednesday took out sacks for threshing, which was in progress yesterday.

RELIGIOUS.

—Sunday School services at the Presbyterian Church will be held at 9:30 o'clock and Teachers' Meeting at 10:45. There will be no morning services held on account of the absence of the pastor.

—The series of revival meetings being conducted at the Little Rock Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. E. K. Kidwell, continue to grow in interest and attendance. Rev. Kidwell is preaching some excellent sermons. The meetings will continue over next Sunday. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend these services.

—The congregation of the Paris Methodist church had the pleasure Sunday of hearing two splendid sermons delivered by a native-born county man, Rev. W. E. Arnold. Rev. Arnold, who is now editor of the Central Methodist, published in Louisville, was in Paris as a guest of Rev. C. H. Greer, pastor of the local church, and was asked to fill the pulpit, which he did at both services. Rev. Arnold was born near Little Rock and was reared in the home of his uncle the late Frank Hinkle, of near North Middletown. Though he has been a member of the Kentucky Conference for many years, and has filled many of the most important places in that conference, Sunday was the first time he had ever preached in Paris. Rev. Arnold was greeted by many of the congregation who knew him years ago.
